I will try and track it down for you.

Ella Clare was Raggedy Ann. What about your bunch? Did they all have candy hangovers today?

Not a big deal at all. It makes no sense for us to print when your client to do it. And from a mission perspective, we need to use every opportunity to communicate the rules of the road to the public, so it doesn't make sense not to take advantage.

I have asked for time on the commissioner's calendar for Monday to discuss this. I cannot fathom why we would not want to do it, and why we can't give you some basic information.

And, at the very least, we should at least tell you if we aren't going to participate so that your client can move on.

My poor friend. It is really sadder than you could ever imagine. just horrible. ugh.

Anyway, EC had a great weekend with her dad and learned about Snickers, just in time for Halloween.

Any ideas of how I could go around her? Or should I just tell my client no.

Saw your husband this weekend. He was at Star Bagel and they were having a good time. I am sorry about your friend's baby---that is so sad

Ok ---we are up to 38 states at last count.

I had hoped the letter was gentle enough that you would send that.

Have a good Friday.

Hello again Wanda,

It appears that I am becoming a nag to you without wanting to do so. My client must know by Nov. 1 whether or not it can print the Tennessee book when and only when the rewrite is complete. I wanted to check back with you to see if you were willing to send the letter mentioned below with the additional phrase noted in all caps.

I hope that we can get an answer before my client's deadline.

I know you are busy but we would love to be able to print the book and in turn save the state of Tennessee money as we distribute them to high schools across the state. Over thirty states have given permission to use their text.

Thanks for your time.

I am very sorry that we are not further along with our materials. I just can't give permission to print what we have until we get it revised.

Sorry. wanda

A permission letter could be very basic and say as follows:

We appreciate your interest in sharing the driver's license book with high school students across the State of Tennessee. We are in the process of rewriting the handbook and when the rewrite is completed, National Safety Commission, Inc. may reprint the handbook in its entirety without any edits or changes in its publications. AT THAT TIME,

WE WILL NEED TO MEET TO DISCUSS YOUR USE OF THE TENNESSEE DRIVER'S LICENSE HANDBOOK.

Let me know if that is acceptable and if you can send that letter to my attention for National Safety Commission, Inc.

Have a great day and I look forward to hearing from you.

PS My client is happy to sit down with you but we do not want to waste your time if this is acceptable and you do not need any additional information.

Mandy, we are in the process or rewriting our handbook since it was out of date and had mis-information in it. We hope to have this completed in the next three months. I feel sure we can work with you as soon as it is completed. Quite frankly, we don't want to let it out until it is corrected. Some of the legal information is out of date. Thanks! Wanda

>>> Stephanie Hamby 07/25/06 4:42 PM >>>

At this time Assistant Commissioner Dajani's calendar is booked for the upcoming month and will not be available to meet sooner.

If you would like, I can try to obtain written permission for the use of the driver license manual. If you have any questions, please let me know.

Thanks

We would like to meet sooner just to confirm that we have permission to use your manual when done. Will that be a problem?

If it is, if we could confirm that in writing, my client may be able to postpone the meeting.

Are you ready for fiscal review tomorrow?

My friend comes home Friday---we are so excited!!!

Thanks for your help
